YACHT CLUB

William T. Warren, 1944, 1945

1895-1971

Bill also had the tough job of holding the Yacht Club together through the wartime restrictions of WWII. He was a representative of a roofing material manufacturer, and since little civilian construction was taking place, Bill had time to devote to the Yacht Club and the Coast Guard Auxiliary. He promoted a weekly luncheon for yachtsmen, which was held at the old Johnson Cafeteria on State Street. Enough dues were collected to hold the line and keep the gang together.
